Business Summary

Wataire International, Inc., a development stage company, engages in the marketing and distribution of commercial and home/office atmospheric water generation machines in the United States. It sells small-scale home/office units, which include an upright model and a countertop model to produce between 4 to 7 gallons of water per day depending on humidity and temperature levels of the location of the unit; and commercial/industrial units that produce approximately 5,000 liters/1320 gallons of safe drinking water each day depending on ambient conditions. The company also distributes related under-the-counter/over-the-counter units, and the water-producing greenhouse. Its products are used in various applications, including military, oil and mining operations, new and existing tourist resorts, beverage bottling plants, new condominium developments, and humanitarian missions. The company's target customers include businesses, governments, and people who are situated in the humid tropics in approximately 30 countries. In addition, it owns intellectual property relating to a water treatment process and devices for water-from-air machines. The company was formerly known as Cimbit Corporation. Wataire International is based in Woodland Hills, California.
